600 MILLION YEARS OF STORIES TO UNVEIL

If you do not know Naturtejo Geopark of the South Plateau, the first Portuguese geopark recognized by UNESCO, you may enjoy our suggestions. Thinking on you, we've selected the best offers of this territory with great heritage relevance, a glorious past, unforgettable vast landscapes, simple folks with big hearts and unique flavours. From the Border region known as "Raia" to Beira Baixa, passing across the High Alentejo and through the Pinewood, there are more than 5.000 km² of fascinating places to discover between the Tagus valley and the Mountains in the Center of Portugal. Because who already met UNESCO Naturtejo Geopark never forgets it and those who come always return... We recall that if you already visited Naturtejo Geopark, you can always come back on the certainty that there are more astonishing sites to explore, a genuine hospitality of those who welcomes you with friendship, tales that cross times told with love by our guides. Accept our challenges for this year ...

UNESCO Global Geoparks

A Geopark is a territory that combines the protection and promotion of the geological heritage with the local sustainable development. The geological heritage of a Global Geopark is internationally recognized and each Geopark includes geosites or geomonuments that are key witnesses for evolution of the planet Earth.

The UNESCO Global Geoparks establish bridges between Geodiversity and other dimensions, such as Biodiversity, History, Culture and Intangible Heritage, based on sustainable development at different levels, such as Geodiversity, the environment, the use of natural resources, the fight against climate change, geological risk management, the involvement of local communities and the preservation of the heritages of the geoparks. The differentiated uses and the socio-economic dimension of the Geological Heritage can be the trigger for regional development, settled on Conservation, Education and Tourism.

Currently the UNESCO Global Geoparks Programme includes 120 territories, spread across 33 countries around the world.
